CHIEF JUSTICE WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT RESIGNS

GANG MURDER, BOMBINGS ON POLICE LIST

Fourth Gang Slaying In As Many Days Is Baffling

Chicago, Feb. 3.—(UP)—A terrific bomb explosion crumpled three cars into debris and rocked the entire southwest side early today, claiming a reign of criminal terror in as many days and another bombing, that of a theater crowded with women and children.

Thousands of residents within a radius of two miles were jarred by the early morning bombing and reets filled with terrified men, women and children, many in their night clothes. Despite the fury of the blast, no one was reported injured.

Buildings a half mile away were shaken until pictures fell from walls and windows were shattered or blown in all directions from the sliding. The bomb was exploded in a grocery operated by Samuel Donia. The stock was reduced to a smear of vegetables and other goods and placed all over the district.

A butcher shop and a tailor shop are quartered in the other two divisions of the building.

Police ascribed the bombing to riotists who resented Donia's presence in the neighborhood.

Traffic on nearby street car lines and on boulevards was tied up for a hour as crowds massed in the reets to watch firemen clear away the debris.

The bombing was a spectacular point in the almost unparallel cycle of crime of the last few years that has ranged from terrorism to murder on a grand scale to kidnaps, robberies and slayings that have kept the long unpaid police department on the run and brought demands for drastic action from citizens.

Gangsters' Victim
Joseph (Motor Car) Cada, a dude gangster, one time race track daredevil, racketeer and a hale fellow all the haunts of the underworld, is the latest victim of gangland vengeance.

He literally "took himself for a ride" since he was shot to death by a man who rode with him in his expensive automobile down a street in the exclusive Wilson Avenue district before dawn yesterday. The killers, immaculately dressed young men, were seen to get out of a car, straighten their ties and at collars and saunter away.

Slumped over the wheel was the big Beau Brummel, his blood altered over his powder blue double-breasted overcoat and his pearl gray spats. The rest of his garb is in keeping, from costly suit to silk shirt. Three diamonds used from a ring on his finger and expensive wrist watch circled his left.

Shot From Behind
In a specially built pocket of his seat was a 38 caliber revolver with a 4 inch barrel. Motor Car Joe" did not clutch for the revolver, cause he was shot from behind, apparently by a man sitting in the rear seat. The bullet entered the back of his head. Another had been ed into the side of his head, apparently by the other man sitting beside him.

Barney J. Mitchell, treasurer of the Checker Cab Company, Glenn Johnson, a driver for the company, and Julius Rosenheim, an informer against criminals, all have died in the same way in the last four years. The murders are unsolved.

Several Bombings
The theater bombing, following on a series in several parts of the city, occurred late yesterday at 10:30 a. m.

Women and children comprised the majority of the 300 in the theater when the blast shook the building. They stampeded for exits, screaming with fear. There was a rush in the doorways and many were in peril of being trampled to death.

The Rev. Richard J. Lee, Rector of Grace Episcopal church nearby, to the entrance and shouted a warning to prevent panic. Mrs. George W. Kruger, wife of the owner, mounted the stage and pleaded with the audience to keep to their seats. Finally the theater was cleared.

Defusal of Kruger to employ film chine operators as urged by the union was given as the motive Mrs. Kruger. She said her husband had been shot in the leg last night. (Continued on Page 2).

ALL PETITIONS OF CANDIDATES RE-FILED TODAY

Stratton Action To Avoid Any Favoritism Is Shown

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—(UP)—Petitions of several hundred candidates for state and national offices in the Illinois state primary, April 8, were on file in Secretary of State William J. Stratton's office here today.

Most of the petitions were filed Saturday and they were refiled by Stratton today to avoid a legal tangle in connection with interpretation of the state primary law. Some candidates contended that Saturday's filing was illegal despite a ruling by Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom that it was the valid date. The petitions refiled today were recorded in the order they were received Saturday.

The order in which candidates' names will be printed on the ballot was still a secret today. Clerks in Stratton's office have worked almost continuously since Saturday morning receiving petitions.

Lou Vogel, in charge of the state election machinery, said it was doubtful if information as to the ballot placing would be available until late today. All information on his subject is expected to be released simultaneously.

District candidates for Congress and candidates for the State Senate and House of Representatives besieged the State House with pleas for favored places on the ballot.

Stratton answered all pleas with the statement that the candidates' place on the ballot is determined only in the order his petition is received through the mails.

He said no favoritism is allowed.

Local Filing.
Today was the first day for the filing of petitions by aspirants for offices subject to the April primaries. The office of County Clerk Fred G. Dimick was not rushed for filing and many of the prospective candidates did not present their petitions early.

Frederic A. Richardson, present Chief Deputy Sheriff, was the first to file his petitions for the office of Sheriff. Harry Christensen of Brooklyn township also filed for this office.

County Judge William L. Leech filed his petition for re-election and Mrs. Olive Thompson, candidate for County Treasurer; Fred G. Dimick, seeking re-election as County Clerk, and L. W. Miller, County Superintendent of Schools, also filed their petitions. Cal. G. Tyler filed his petitions for precinct committeeman in the eleventh precinct, Dixon.

Whale's Charge On Ferry Ineffective

San Francisco, Feb. 3.—A large whale slipped into San Francisco Bay for a frolic in the relatively warm water and was cruising past Alcatraz Island yesterday when a ferry boat appeared dead ahead.

The whale flicked a fluke pugnaciously and assumed a "better-get-outa-my-way" attitude, which the boat ignored. Leviathan charged meeting the boat head-on, and then dove to, as if expecting some entertaining results. The ferry just kept on.

The whale spouted and went discreetly on its way. Captain Oscar Chamberlain of the ferry said neither whale nor boat was damaged.

Chartered Plane For His Fiancee

Boston, Feb. 3.—(UP)—So his fiancee, a Smith college freshman, would not be late for chapel, Corey C. Brayton, Jr., 19, of Berkeley, Calif., chartered an airplane today and flew with her to Northampton, about 100 miles from here.

The young woman, whose name was not divulged, had spent the week-end in Boston and would have been late for chapel at Smith College this morning but for the air trip, which cost Brayton $57.

TWENTY-ONE ARE BELIEVED LOST IN OCEAN STORM

Destructive Gales On The Atlantic Off Europe's Coast

London, Feb. 3.—(UP)—Twenty-one persons are believed to have lost their lives today as the result of destructive storms that pounded shipping from the gulf of Finland to the Mediterranean.

Twenty of the crew of the Danish steamer Nelly were reported drowned when the ship went ashore in the Gulf of Finland, according to a Telegraphic Union dispatch to Berlin.

The British passenger ship Avelona Star, bound from Rio de Janeiro to London, was reported pulled off the rocks at the mouth of the Tagus, near Lisbon, after being grounded for six hours.

One man was swept overboard from the British steamer Trevean, 250 miles southwest of Falmouth. The steamer, badly damaged, was proceeding to port at half speed.

Another British steamer, the Lakewood, reached port at Sheerness after a terrific battle in which she lost three propeller blades.

Reports from Brest showed the Dutch steamer Helen still ashore and in danger of breaking up, near Brest. Thus far attempts to refloat the stranded vessel have failed.

Threatened Babies In Hotel Robbery

Chicago, Feb. 3.—(UP)—A gun aimed at the cradle of new-born twins compelled the father of the infants to surrender $800 to four holdup men early today.

D. George Addison, manager of a north side apartment hotel, and his wife were in bed when three of the bandits walked into their apartment. The fourth bandit was in the lobby keeping the clerk covered.

One of the trio pointed a revolver at the Addison's twins and threatened to shoot them unless the manager revealed where he had secreted the hotel's funds. The terrified father turned over the key to a dresser drawer and the robbers left with $800.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Four robbers early today entered the Lincoln-Wood Apartment Hotel and after binding the night clerk and bell boy, forced the manager to hand over $4100 in checks and cash. The money was in the hotel safe.

Pleads For Doctors' Rights In Dry Law

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Amendment of the prohibition law to permit physicians to prescribe wines and liquors in such quantities as they may deem proper was proposed in a bill today by Representative Celler, Democrat, New York.

"Doctors being of an honored profession should be trusted not to abuse their privileges," the New Yorker said in a statement. "They may prescribe narcotics and opiates; they have power, with the knife and scalpel, to cut into the human anatomy. Yet prohibition makes a mockery of this honored profession. Doctors may not prescribe more than half a pint of medicinal whiskey nor more than one pint of wine within any period of ten days.

It is like telling a soldier that he may shoot to kill, but that under no circumstance shall he use a putty blower."

Start Official Probe Of Blaze

Canon City, Colo., Feb. 3.—(UP)—Official investigation of the fire at the state penitentiary here Saturday which caused $15,000 damage to food stuffs and clothing will be made early this week by the State Board of Corrections.

Warden Francis E. Crawford and other prison officials are of the opinion that the blaze, which broke out in the carpenter shop, was of incendiary origin.

The fire was extinguished by the prison fire department with the aid of apparatus from Canon City. Prisoners made no attempt to escape.

Five convicts were slightly injured fighting the flames. A sixth, Daniel Riordan, was stabbed. Warden Crawford said the stabbing resulted from a "grudge."

Borrowed His Son's Girl, Auto: Spanked

Chicago, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Albert Piernerman's father borrowed Albert's girl friend and Albert's automobile, and got spanked for it.

The spanking, done by Albert, who is 21, attracted so much attention on North LaSalle street yesterday that police were called and arrested Albert, his father, David, and the girl friend, Miss Sharon Daniels.

At the station it was cleared up, and Albert gave his dad a good talking to.

BETTER PRISON OFFICIALS AND GUARDS NEEDED

Lowden Committee of Investigators Submitted Report

New York, Feb. 3.—(UP)—Better prison officials and guards are needed more than better prison buildings in rehabilitating the nation's criminal element, according to the report of a special committee named by former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois to study penal administration.

The report, submitted to the National Crime Commission, is based on a year's study by the Executive Secretary of the Committee, Prof. Louis N. Robinson of Swarthmore College, Pa.

"In our opinion," the committee said, "an advance in penal administration can be brought about only through the full acceptance of the present-day principle of knowing what each job is and of finding and developing the proper man to do it."

Despite advances in pardon, parole and probation legislation, the committee found that so far administration of these reforms has been largely to persons who are "to a great extent totally unfitted for the work needed."

Only ten states have civil service boards with jurisdiction over prison officials.

The committee also observed that one of chief reasons for this country's failure to make imprisonment reformatory is that "we Americans suffer from the delusion that laws enforce themselves."

Hoover Will Fish At Long Key, Fla.

Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—It was announced at the White House today that President Hoover hopes to get away for four or five days on a fishing trip at Long Key, Florida, some time soon.

If the President is able to arrange the trip he will go directly from Washington to Long Key without any stops en route. He will board a boat, probably the Saunterer, and spend the entire time on the craft. He will make no speeches or appearance on his way south or on the return trip.

Mrs. Hoover probably will accompany him.

The Saunterer is a houseboat belonging to Jerry Milbank, treasurer of the Eastern Division of the Republican National Committee.

Peoria Cafeteria Robbed Of $1,500

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Three bandits, armed and unmasked, held up a janitor in the Bishop Cafeteria last night, looted the safe of $1,500, two days' receipts, and escaped.

Saying he was frightened by the guns the bandits carried, the janitor delayed notification of the police until after midnight.

MAIN PROBLEMS OF NAVAL MEET IN CONFERENCE

Full Delegation Will Tackle Real Issues Of Naval Parley

London, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Determination of the naval conference chiefs to keep important decisions in their own hands and not intrust them to committees became increasingly apparent today as the five power naval conference turned toward first consideration of the concrete terms of naval limitation.

It was disclosed that what little remained of the special agenda committee created last week is to be pushed still further into the background. One official said the committee might meet sometime, might even make a report eventually but it would be merely a matter of form and its work would be without real value.

This means that the method of direct negotiations between the delegates, a method favored by the Americans from the first, has become a reality. The feeling at Washington has been that the committee system, that is taking important subjects out of the hands of important governmental spokesmen, was largely responsible for the failure at Geneva.

No French Victory.
There was much gossip in conference circles today over the efforts of a prominent London newspaper to make a French victory out of the presence of a League of Nations observer at the conference sessions. It was pointed out that this was no departure from previous policy, as an observer was provided for months ago in the preliminary arrangements.

The French have been insistent that all limitation negotiations be subservient to the League of Nations disarmament efforts. The United States is the only non-member of the League present at the conference. The Americans never have objected to the League observing and discussing any agreement made here, although they have been insistent that no League would affect the American part in any such agreement.

Leaders Return.
All of the delegation chiefs returned to London this morning after week-end absences except Andre Tardieu, French Premier, in the absence of the French leader the experts working on some details for a rounding out of the "transnational" tonnage proposals, by which it is hoped to effect a compromise between "global" and categorical schools of limitation thought.

Aristide Briand, who will act for M. Tardieu during his absence in Paris, will go over the experts' proposals and recommendations tonight, in preparatory to addressing the full meeting of the conference tomorrow.

The first exchange of information between the Americans and the French on the subject of the transnational compromise proposal since the proposal was put forward took place today when Ambassador Gibson and Rene Massigli, secretary of the French delegation, met.

Girl Sang While Robbers Worked

Chicago, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Without getting into the slightest discussion whatsoever concerning the singing voice of Miss Ann Kanter, it may be set forth without prejudice that she sang, and burglars ran out of the house.

Miss Kanter arrived with Miss Sonia Mahan at the latter's home early yesterday. Burglars were in the place, and the young women were frightened. It was under these trying circumstances that Miss Kanter sang, to the piano accompaniment of Miss Mahan. It was their idea to let the burglars know they were home, and at the same time keep the burglars from knowing that the girls knew, or words to that effect.

At the first few bars there was evidence of excitement from the direction of the burglars and in a moment the back door slammed behind them. They took loot valued at $1,000.

Wales has Recovered From His Cold Now

Mahalapye Station, Echuanaaland, Union of South Africa, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The Prince of Wales has recovered completely from the cold which bothered him Saturday at Johannesburg and, when he stopped here yesterday enroute to Bulawayo, Southern Rhodesia, appeared the picture of health.

He strolled with friends along the railway platform chatting. The white people recognized him but to the natives he was just another tourist who might purchase skins, necklaces and carvings.

They crowded about him and his friends and had some success in getting rid of their wares.

Chief Justice Of U. S. Quits Bench

MANUSCRIPTS OF EUGENE FIELD OF VALUE MISSING

Poet's Widow Believes Papers Stolen From Vault

Chicago, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Valuable literary and historical manuscripts that belonged to the late Eugene Field have disappeared some time within the last three years and the poet's widow believes they have been stolen.

The lost documents include the manuscript of "The Love Affairs of a Bibliomaniac," Field's last work and one of the most popular of his prose writings. Mrs. Field had refused an offer of $7,500 for it.

Another missing document is the original brief in the Dred Scott case, prepared by the poet's father, Roswell M. Field, who was a leading attorney of St. Louis.

Many letters written by James Whitcomb Riley to Field also are missing. The two poets were close friends.

For many years Mrs. Field kept the documents in a safety deposit vault here. Three years ago, however, they were shipped under bond to a Tomahawk, Wis., bank, to be more readily accessible to Mrs. Field, whose home is near Bradley, Wis. Only within recent months has Mrs. Field discovered that valuable documents are missing. One manuscript believed stolen was the original of "Over the Hills and Far Away," one of Field's best known poems.

Mrs. Field revealed the loss today, believing that whoever took the papers will attempt to sell them.

Many Friends Paid Mrs. Trein Tribute

The funeral of Mrs. William E. Trein was conducted Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from St. Paul's Lutheran church, Rev. Lloyd W. Walter officiating. The final rites were largely attended and there was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes banking the casket and altar. The pall bearers were: William Galt, Fred Schmoeger, William McCloy, W. H. Oppold, Charles Clark and Harry Burkholder, all of Sterling. Interment was in Riverside cemetery at Sterling.

REQUISITION ISSUED

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—(UP)—A requisition was issued here today for the return of Claude Sullivan, held in Chicago, to Washington county, Mississippi, where he is wanted to serve a five year term on a burglary and larceny charge. Sullivan, it was stated, escaped from jail where he was held preparatory to being sent to the Mississippi state prison, by sawing his way through cell bars.

POOR HEALTH CAUSE OF HIS ACTION TODAY

Is Only Man In History To Be President And Chief of Justices

BULLETIN.
Asheville, N. C., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Former President William Howard Taft, who resigned today as Chief Justice of the United States, is a "pretty sick man," Dr. Francis Hagner of Washington, his personal physician, said here today.

Washington, Feb. 3.—(UP)—William Howard Taft resigned as Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court today and thus brought to a close, dramatically, one of the most brilliant careers in the country's history.

Broken in health, the man who rose to the pinnacle of political prement as President of the United States and then became head of the nation's highest tribunal, submitted his resignation to President Hoover through his son, Robert Taft.

Taft is now in Asheville, N. C., where he went for a rest when he was forced to give up his work in the Supreme Court by overwork and grief over the death of his brother, Charles F. Taft. His condition was accentuated by a recurrence of an old bladder ailment.

President Hoover has not acted upon the resignation, it was said at the White House, and it is presumed the retiring Chief Justice will confer with the President soon after he arrives here.

The aged Chief Justice was stricken heavily by the death of his brother. Only a few days later he was forced to give up his place on the bench upon orders of his physicians. About three weeks ago, he left for Asheville.

Taft, who was appointed June 30, 1921, by President Harding, succeeding Edward Douglas White, a Confederate war veteran of Louisiana, was the tenth Chief Justice in the country's 140 years of history.

Taft's son, in submitting the resignation to President Hoover today, said his father's health had not improved by his stay at Asheville, and

SHIES AT FLYERS' BIDS

There is just one form of travel William Howard Taft has ever balked at.

That was a journey in the air. "My style of architecture," he has often said, "is not adapted to the flying machine."

"I would capsize the stablest of them."

explained that he is returning here where his family believes he will be more comfortable.

Mr. Taft decided to resign "because we felt it would be safer for him to do so," Dr. Hagner said.

Dr. Hagner would not permit reporters to see the Chief Justice but Mr. Taft sent word by a member of his party that he had no comment to make.

Mr. Taft is "very weak and he is not improving," Dr. Hagner said, "and as he is not improving we feel that it would be safer to get him back to Washington."

Although preparations were being made to leave for Washington at 5 o'clock this afternoon, Taft remained in the seclusion of his suite throughout the day.

He came here three weeks ago to recuperate from an old organic trouble.

Mrs. Taft, informed that the announcement of her husband's resignation had been made in Washington, said "There is nothing to say."

William Howard Taft's place in American history is unique.

Twenty-seventh president and tenth chief justice of the United States, he has held the two highest offices within the nation's gift. He is the only man to occupy both of these positions.

A son of Alphonso and Louisa Maria Torrey Taft, he was born Sept. 15, 1857, in Cincinnati, O.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Love" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 2.

The Golden Text was: "The Lord will command his lovingkindness in the daytime, and in the night his song shall be with me, and my prayer unto the God of my Life" (Psalms 42:8).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want" (Psalms 23:1).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Divine Love always has met and always will meet every human need. It is not well to imagine that Jesus demonstrated the divine power to heal only for a select number or for a limited period of time, since to all mankind and in every hour, divine Love supplies all good" (p. 494).

This evening, the official board, Dr. C. E. Smith, chairman, holds its monthly session, at the church. Tuesday night, Boys Scouts, L. W. Emmert, Scoutmaster. The same evening, Mrs. W. G. Wells, president, will be hostess to the Guest Meeting of the Mission Guild, at her home, 514 East Third street.

The new class, studying Rail's "Life of Christ" as a Pentecost feature, holds its first recitation-session at the church Wednesday evening in connection with Mid-week Devotions. The initial enrollment of this class is most encouraging, almost thirty being signed up so far. The pastor and F. M. Johnson will be the teachers, with Mrs. R. W. Sweeney in charge of the younger section.

M. M. S. meet Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. S. Parks, 624 Brinton Ave., with Mrs. Jesse Martin program leader.

The next special service of the church calendar will be the evening of Feb. 16th, Sunday, when the Endeavorers will give their delayed "Christian Endeavor Day" open service, at the hour of the church service.

Last night's concert by the Eureka College Quartette saw a filled house, and great delight with the varied numbers, so splendidly presented.

The Harts and Nelsons are accused of distributing narcotics in Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois and Missouri. Two young children of the Harts, federal investigators said, were used to carry the narcotics.

Taken For Ride?

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Dominic Tarro, roadhouse proprietor of Benid, was still among the missing today.

Due to appear this week in the Federal court to defend himself of charges of violating the prohibition act, Tarro was believed by his wife to have been done away with by liquor influences which feared he "might tell too much," she said. His automobile was found, a charred wreck, on the Havana-Mason City hard road Friday morning. Search of the country side has failed to produce a single clue of him, reports say. Tarro was under $15,500 bond.

Another four years brought his diploma and LL. B. from the University of Cincinnati law school. There also he excelled in scholarship, for on Commencement Day he shared in the first prize.

Instead of starting practice immediately, he became legal reporter on the Cincinnati Times, published by a brother, Charles P. Taft. From the Times, he moved over to the old Commercial for a few months.

Father of Three.

But he was not destined for a journalistic career. His talents were to be employed principally before and on the bench.

In 1881, a year after his admittance to the bar, he was appointed an assistant prosecutor in Hamilton county. A little more than a year following, he was named federal collector of internal revenue.

His wedding to Miss Helen Herron took place June 19, 1886. They had three children, Robert, Helen and Charles.

At 30, he ascended the Ohio Superior Court bench. In 1890, after his re-election to another term, he accepted President Benjamin Harrison's invitation to the United States solicitor general.

His able argument and opinions in the Bering Sea controversy and the tariff cases won him wide recognition.

Labor Decisions

This, no doubt, had much to do with his selection as judge of the newly created federal Circuit Court of Appeals (sixth circuit) in 1892.

He handed down several far-reaching decisions in cases in which railroad, other big corporations and organized labor figured prominently. These were of important consequence in the development of "strike injunctions."

In the case of Moore vs. the Bricklayers' Union, he ruled a secondary boycott illegal. Although upholding the laborer's right to organize, he maintained unions must refrain from injurious to society.

When Eugene V. Debs endeavored to tie up rail traffic in the walkout of 1894, Judge Taft issued an injunction against Debs' agent, F. W. Phelan.

From 1896 to 1900, while still on the appellate bench, Taft served as dean and professor of law at his last alma mater, the University of Cincinnati.

Governed Filipinos.

In 1900, he resigned his judgeship to become chairman of the commission President William B. McKinley chose to institute civil government in the Philippine Islands. During four years' residence in the islands, he attained wide popularity as an able colonial administrator.

He visited Rome in 1902, at the request of President Theodore Roosevelt, to negotiate with Pope Leo XIII for the purchase of the friars' lands.

In 1903, when President Roosevelt offered him a place in the federal Supreme Court, Taft acceded to the Filipinos' wishes to remain with them.

The next year, though, he returned home to succeed Elihu Root as secretary of war.

Roosevelt's Choice

It was not long until he was regarded as the spokesman of the Roosevelt administration. On many important missions at home and abroad, he was "Teddy's" personal envoy.

Following American intervention, Taft went to Cuba as temporary civil governor. In 1907, he visited the Panama Canal zone to familiarize himself with conditions there.

The same year he returned to the Philippines to open the legislative assembly.

From the islands, he sailed for Japan to confer with Nipponese officials relative to Japanese subjects in the United States. He proceeded to China, where he undertook important negotiations relative to Chinese boycott of American commodities, and then to Russia.

As the presidential campaign of 1908 drew near, Roosevelt let it be known he favored Taft as his successor. Through the president's influence and his own popularity and pleasing personality, he easily won the Republican nomination. In the election, he was elected overwhelmingly over his Democratic opponent, William Jennings Bryan.

Breaks With "Teddy"

His troubles began soon after his inauguration, March 4, 1909. The Ballinger-Pinchot controversy and other quarrels tore apart his administrative family.

Naturally somewhat conservative, he made "Uncle Joe" Cannon and Senator Aldrich his principal consultants in Congress. Not sufficiently opportunistic, he failed to silence the resulting outcry from the "Progressives."

Unfitted to cope with problems primarily political—for he never has been considered an astute politician—he made enemies with his party and alienated popular support.

Came then the break with Roosevelt. The split in the party led to his defeat by Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic nominee, in the elections of 1912.

His War Work.

Retiring to private life, Taft once more went back to the scenes of his college days, returning to Yale as Kent professor of law. The same year he was elected president of the American Bar Association.

On the side, he lectured extensively and did considerable writing, chiefly in an editorial vein for the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

In 1915, he was designated chairman of the Central Committee of the American Red Cross.

Soon after the United States declared war upon Germany and its allies, President Wilson called upon Taft to serve on the War Labor Board. He remained on it until its dissolution in 1919.

League Advocate.

Taft perhaps was the most influential of all the Republicans who lined up with Wilson in his plea for the ratification of the Versailles treaty and the League of Nations covenant.

Meanwhile, time had mended the breach with Roosevelt. Taft and "Teddy" had become good friends again quite a while before the latter's death.

June 30, 1921, saw the realization of the former president's most cherished desire. President Warren G. Harding, despite considerable opposition from "Progressives" like Senator Borah, made him chief justice of the United States.

He succeeded Edward Douglass White, whom he himself, comparatively a few years before, had elevated to the same exalted office.

PROBLEM FOR HOOVER.

Washington, Feb. 3.—(UP)—Resignation of Chief Justice Taft faces President Hoover with one of the most momentous decisions of his administration, choosing a new Chief Justice. The position pays $20,500 a year, and its duties include the administration of the court's secret procedure.

Among the nation's legal men who have a position of leadership great enough to qualify them for consideration, the following might be considered when Mr. Hoover decides to make a choice:

Associate Justice Harlan Fiske Stone, personal friend of the President and a member of his medicine cabinet, and the other seven present Justices Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard Law School, a member of the Law Enforcement Commission; Chairman George W. Wickersham of the same commission; Federal Circuit Judge William S. Kenyon, former Senator; William E. Borah of Idaho.

Former President Coolidge also was called to mind today as a possible candidate, although he has not been engaged in active judicial practice recently. John W. Davis, the 1924 Democratic candidate for President, is perhaps the leading Democrat who would be eligible. Rep. Hatton W. Sumners, Texas, is another outstanding Democratic lawyer.

Rep. James M. Beck of Pennsylvania is perhaps the best known constitutional authority of the House. Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes is 88, and Justice Brandeis is 72, and several other Justices are well along in years. Stone, the youngest, is 57. Wickersham and Kenyon also are perhaps too old to consider taking up such arduous tasks.

VOICELESS MUSIC
PEAKS! You heave your shoulders in the sky
In voiceless music—not the hills are dumb—
But we—they challenge us for some reply.
And yet our senses lie inert and numb.

Who knows what chords the rugged outlines hold?
What mighty fugues are piled up by the range.
What symphonies lurk in each cloud-clad fold.
What hidden cadences, what accents strange?
These organ pipes await a master long.
The pent-up accents ache to overflow;
The tones to be reduced to human song—
Not tossed in wistful silence to and fro.
A noiseless chorus, an Unwritten Word.
A shoreless ocean, and the waves unheard.

Evening Frocks Are Backless

Paris, Feb. 3—(AP)—Evening frocks as backless as the newest bathing suits are among Parisian style-makers' summer models which American buyers will rush to the United States in the next few days to be copied in American workshops and to reappear on country club verandas.

The new décolletée is not the mere vee which marked the frocks of the winter season, but an opening eight to twelve inches wide at the waistline. In order to keep in place the frocks, which have a tendency to slip off narrow shoulders, some of the gowns are designed with insets of a sunburn shade of chiffon, which is the exact tint of sun-tanned backs.

Some of the backless dresses have rudimentary capes, but they are short affairs and are split up through the center. Stylists have christened them "beetle-backs," and prophesy a wide success for them among young Americans.

Descendant of Lincoln Prefers Plane to Teas

Washington (AP)—Mary Lincoln Beckwith, great-great-granddaughter of Abraham Lincoln, has enrolled in a flying class here simply as "M. L. Beckwith."

She owns a three-seat sports plane and has a few hours flying credit attached to her name. A skilled sportswoman, Miss Beckwith has taken up flying with enthusiasm. Teas and receptions do not interest "Peggy," as she is known to her intimates.

She owns a three-seat sports plane and goes in for all sorts of sports at the Lincoln country place at Manchester, Vt., and at the family's Virginia farm. When in Washington she lives in historic Georgetown with her mother, Mrs. Robert J. Randolph.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. Leeds Divorced

New York, Feb. 3—(AP)—Details of the grounds upon which the former Princess Xenia of Russia was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from William B. Leeds, Jr., who inherited millions made in tin plate remained a secret today.

Percy Stoddard, referee in the case, said he did not remember the grounds upon which the divorce was sought. In signing the decree at Huntington, Long Island, Saturday, Justice Selah B. Strong, said it was based on the findings of Stoddard and he did not know what the grounds for the action were. There is only one cause for divorce in New York state.

Stoddard said he was appointed Referee in December or January and held hearings in his office. He said Princess Xenia testified among several witnesses. Leeds was represented by counsel. Stoddard said his partner, Henry Uterhart, was counsel for Mrs. Leeds.

The New York American says today that although the announcement of the divorce came to the public as a surprise, in social circles it had been known that the couple separated nearly a year ago.

The American says a disparity in temperaments was declared by friends in society to have been responsible.

Leeds and Princess Xenia were married in Paris October 8, 1921. Both were 19 years old at the time. They have a small daughter.

Mrs. Chewning to Do Own Housework

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 3—(AP)—Forgiven by her father for eloping, Mrs. W. Jeffries Chewning, who until Saturday was Miss Margaret Couzens, daughter of Senator James Couzens, Michigan capitalist, is going to do her own house work.

"I studied domestic science for four years and I can cook anything from bread to eggs," she said as she and her husband, an employee of a Washington trust company, discussed their elopement.

"And we're going to live on my salary," the bridegroom said.

Mrs. Chewning exhibited her engagement ring, a large amethyst set in gold.

"It was given to my ancestor, Sir Herbert Jeffries, royal Governor of Virginia, by King Charles II," her husband explained.

They arrived in Norfolk Inset by boat from Baltimore, where they were married quietly Saturday. They are planning a tour of the historic Virginia peninsula. "This is Jeff's part of Virginia," Mrs. Chewning said.

said. "And I want to see it all."

They already have selected an apartment in Washington.

Their elopement was not prompted by fear of parental disapproval, she said. It was because of her aversion to "big" weddings.

"I think they're messy," she declared. Miss Couzens, who is 21, was one of this season's debutantes, but because of her preference for art study her parents gave no formal presentation party for her. Her art will go by the boards now, however.

Mr. Chewning is 25 and the son of a Fredericksburg, Va., physician.

Humbert and Bride Settle in "Bungalow"

Turin, Italy, Feb. 3—(AP)—Guarded from their anti-fascist enemies by a small army of police and military details, Crown Prince Humbert and his bride, who was Marie Jose of Belgium, have come to Turin to make their home.

Turin's population of more than half a million gave the royal bridal couple a tremendous welcome as they arrived yesterday from Val d'Aosta, where they had been enjoying the winter sports. But the Italian authorities did not allow the cheers and applause to lull them into a feeling of false security.

Elaborate precautions were taken to protect them from any attempt at injury. Baggage of all persons entering Turin for the last few days was searched for bombs and other weapons and the Turin newspapers were not permitted to print the exact time of the royal train's arrival until Sunday morning. Streets were lined with troops with drawn swords and fixed bayonets who kept back the crowds.

Today the royal couple began to keep house. It was not housekeeping sense, because the "little bungalow" according to the ordinary American of the Crown Prince and his bride really is a royal palace with 150 rooms, a half dozen cooks and a regiment of servants.

Only 108 Out of 531 Congressmen Wet

Evanston, Ill., Feb. 3—(UP)—Only 108 of the 531 members of Congress are wet and underneath all of their noise "the Hoover administration is moving ahead effectively to enforce the 18th amendment," Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, said today in a letter sent to all state presidents of the organization.

Twenty percent of the wet members of Congress come from New York, Mrs. Boole asserted in the letter.

Federal enforcement is better today than ever," the letter continued. "The fleet of rum ships have gone forever. The well-financed syndicates of criminals who divert industrial alcohol are being broken asunder. Illicit liquor making is being transformed from large to small units and soon these will disappear through a campaign of education."

Has Signed 515 Divorce Petitions

Chicago, Feb. 3—(AP)—A record for divorce actions which the court clerk, Gus Wedehamer, declared has not been approached by any other American jurist, was made during January by Judge Thomas L. Lynch in Circuit Court. He signed 515 divorce petitions.

In motions for divorce during the month, at the rate the year has started, 1936 set a new high record for divorces in Chicago courts. In 1929 the total was 10,336.

MISS VIRGINIA MURRAY LEADS SIXTY WOMEN WORKERS IN DRIVE TO NIP DELINQUENTS IN NEW YORK

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer

New York—Whether they like it or not, the larger cities must solve the youthful crime and delinquency problem for the whole country, because they get most of the boys and girls from the village who come looking for excitement, and sometimes find calamity.

That is the expert opinion of Miss Virginia Murray, Director of the newly created Crime Prevention Bureau of New York, and sister of Dr. Warren G. Murray, managing officer of the Dixon, Ill., State Hospital. She is at the head of 60 women, all college graduates or experienced social workers, recruited for the first active campaign against the younger generation.

"Our hope is to keep young people out of jails, instead of putting them in," she said. "We want to supply that ounce of prevention which is so greatly needed. And we hope to set an example for other cities."

Situation Worst in Cities
"The crime situation in New York, so far as young people are concerned, differs from that in other cities only relatively. Youngsters are pretty much the same from Maine to California. Those in the country run away to cities in search of excitement. So the situation seems worse in cities merely because these get the overflow from the whole country."

"Young people, most of them, break at the same point, no matter where they come from. They get into difficulty when they go out for a good time. Unsupervised recreation, dangerous and questionable places of amusement are the greatest breeders of crime among the young."

"And since this is so, our department will begin its work in the congested quarters where recreation is the greatest problem."

"At the present time, we are but a week old, and have no precedents to follow. But inside of a year we expect to have located the centers of youthful delinquency, and dance halls of bad repute, the massage parlors, and all undercover resorts."

Aims Are Explained
"We expect, too, to have sifted through the various social agencies so that we know just where to find the type of constructive help we need, or to know just how inadequate our social service channels actually are. We hope to have made friends and established ourselves so well that we will be invaluable to the men on the police force, particularly in handling young boys and women."

Miss Murray who was loaned to the Police Department by the Travelers Aid Society, where she has been executive secretary for the past ten years, is a woman of wide experience and considerable charm.

There is nothing formidable about her appearance. She has big brown eyes, curly hair, a slim figure, wears earrings and a pearl necklace, dresses with excellent taste.

War Brides Her Problem
Immediately after the war she held a government position in which she looked after the cases of thousands of wartime brides, and unraveled the complications that so often attended.

For five years she was head probation officer of the Children's Court in Columbus, O., where she organized the "Big Sisters," now one of the most constructive societies in the country.

"Columbus presented a trio of problems that complicated junior delinquencies," she said. "It is a capital city, with a college and a recruiting station. Detroit, another city in which I did social service work, was extremely difficult because of its unusual growth and the fact that it had not digested its problems before more were heaped on."

"I found in both cities, and later in all others in which I have worked, that although all sorts of organizations are willing to do things for boys, there is very little organized, intelligent help available for girls."

She Isn't Patronizing
Miss Murray has none of the patronizing attitude toward what used to be termed "the fallen girl." She doesn't think of her in that way. She speaks of reconstruction work, and that is exactly what she means, and how she thinks of it. She has no patience with the sentimental woman worker who gets a certain neurotic excitement from second-hand association with delinquency.

Miss Murray and her force of 60, who represent an effort on the part of New York's Police Commissioner Whalen to work out social problems with a highly specialized staff, are ranked considerably above the police matrons of the department who do duty at the stations, and above the patrolwomen, who do case work but are not all trained social workers.

Shepherd's Class Pleasant Meeting Thursday Evening

The Shepherd's class of the Grace Evangelical church held a well attended and interesting meeting Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wulbrandt.

Vade Pierce, who is president of the class, presided and the meeting opened with the singing of "Into My Heart," followed with Scripture reading by Raymond Messner.

After the reading of the minutes and report of the treasurer, Mrs. Wulbrandt was elected vice president of the society in the place of Harvey Marshall, who has moved away from town.

Prayer was then offered by Rev. A. D. Shafer. The program following the business session was as follows: Piano solo—Miss Elaine Ioder. Vocal Solo—Raymond Wulbrandt. Duets—Miss Edna Winebrenner, Reuben Winebrenner.

Reading—Mr. Wulbrandt. Harmonica solo—Randall Wulbrandt.

Luncheon was then served by the hostesses, Mrs. Ray Wulbrandt and Mrs. Reuben Winebrenner, during the social hour.

Conte ts of Hope Chest Are Beautiful
On display in the window at the Mellott Furniture store, is the handsome hope chest which was donated to St. Anne's Catholic church of North Dixon, by the Mellott Furniture Co. And within its spicy and sweet smelling environs lie many lovely articles for the home to delight the particular housewife, including fine sheets, pillow cases, a handsome table cloth, blankets, a silken bed spread, a soft silken nightie, robe, napkins, etc., donated and made by the industrious and generous women of St. Anne's parish. The chest with its attractive contents will be given away at the bazaar and formal dedication of St. Anne's hall on the evenings of the 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th of February. There is much interest manifested in the chest and no doubt it will prove one of the big attractions for the bazaar.

H. S. Students Cheer Quartet Heartily
The Men's Quartette of Eureka College concluded their appearances here, in a rousing reception to their melodies, at the High School Assembly, this morning. Dixon's seven hundred and more high school students gave a most hearty response through prolonged applause and encores, and also exhibited for the visitors the kind of cheering an up-to-date school can provide for athletic teams, even if victories may not be the results every time. Between the two groups of numbers given by the college boys, Cheer-leaders Edward Nagle, Edward Finefield, and Chas. Carroll drilled the assembly on yells with such good results that one of the Quartette remarked he could understand "Duich" Reagan's source for his "technique" displayed in the present basketball season at Eureka, where he is one of the cheer-leaders.

Not only were the Eureka men's programs in Dixon and adjoining towns highly appreciated on this mid-semester tour, but their exceptionally pleasant personalities and conduct won for them equally favorable comment. While some selections were presented a capella, the work of Mrs. Margaret Mundell Tomb, accompanist, was a great asset in the programs. She and the men, Messrs. Forrest Hampton, Stanley Hamilton, Leslie Pierce, and Marion Coy, left for Walnut, this afternoon, where they will sing before the High School, and at night in a full concert the Christian Church.

Now These People Must Be Happy
Marion, Ark., Feb. 3—(AP)—Advice which a County Clerk volunteered to hundreds of persons wedded under allegedly worthless licenses issued by an Arkansas Justice of the Peace today was credited with bringing about remarriages in a majority of the cases before the situation became known to the general public.

A report by State Comptroller Howard Reed filed Saturday alleged that Justice A. L. Newman had been dispensing marriage licenses for 11 months without authority. County Clerk A. B. Carter then disclosed that when the licenses came to him for recording he quietly communicated with the couples and in every case of which he knew remarriage had followed.

Many of the couples had selected Marion, located just east of the Mississippi river six miles from Memphis, Tenn., for their wedding to avoid the Tennessee five day notice law. Last December alone 1,834 marriage licenses were issued in this (Crittenden) county.

EIELSON'S DAD ON WAY NORTH TO CLAIM BODY

He Has Abandoned Hope His Son Will Be Found Alive

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Bearing the loss of his son with Spartan fortitude, Ole Eielson, 66-year-old father of Carl Ben Eielson, was here today after a journey from Hatton, N. D., enroute to Alaska to claim the body of the aviator, in case it is recovered from the wreckage of his plane, found last Saturday in a lagoon 90-miles southeast of North Cape, Siberia.

The elder Eielson was met here by W. E. Borland, father of Mechanic Earl Borland, who was with Eielson on the ill fated flight.

"It is too bad," Borland said as he grasped Eielson's hand. "Earl had such faith in your boy."

"There are times when faith doesn't count for much," Eielson replied calmly. "It is over, and we must bear up."

Miss Adeline Eielson, a school teacher at Wenatchee, Wash., accompanied her father here. They both quietly but definitely vetoed the idea of a military funeral in Arlington cemetery for the aviator, as has been suggested. Both expressed a desire that if Eielson's body is recovered it be interred in the family plot at Hatton. The elder Eielson has abandoned hope that his son might be found alive and feels that even the body might never be found because of the prevalence of wolves and other prowling animals in Siberia.

Eielson will leave here Wednesday for Fairbanks, Alaska, if the opportunity presents itself he plans to fly to the scene of the crash, provided the bodies have not been recovered by the time he arrives in Alaska.

Five Youths Died In Auto Accident

Pomona, Cal., Feb. 3.—(UP)—The wild auto flight of six youths from motorcycle officers who sought to warn them of bad highway curves, ended in death for five of the boys and probably fatal injuries for the other.

A small automobile, with three youths clinging to the running boards and three others in the single seat, carried them over a 50-foot embankment yesterday when they were unable to negotiate a curve in a winding canyon road.

The dead: Melvin Leiter, 17; William Brown, 16; Arthur Hubbard, 17; and his brother James, 16; and Howard White, 17.

Charles Caldwell, 19, was near death in a hospital.

Officers said they noticed the automobile traveling fairly fast down the canyon. When they speeded up to overtake the youths and warn them of bad curves, the car went faster.

ON WITH THE DANCE

A True Story of the Younger Set

THE Friday evening dancing party was the week's high spot for the young folks of a certain small country club. A four-piece orchestra always supplied the rhythm until older members conceived the idea that mechanical music would serve the youngsters just as well—and cost less.

Accordingly, a music machine was installed. The plan worked once, but the next Friday the little band triumphantly returned to the job.

"What's wrong with your new music box?" a father asked. "Wouldn't you rather dance to Whiteman and Vallee records than to a tin-pan band?"

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—(UP)—Procedure of courts in Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Tennessee may be studied by a commission of Illinois lawyers next month with a view to remedying defects in the Illinois law, according to an announcement here by R. Allan Stephens, Secretary of the Illinois Bar Association.

The tour was proposed as a result of a tour by a state commission which visited eastern and Canadian cities where studies of court procedure were made.

The proposed tour is scheduled to start from Chicago, March 9. Cities which may be visited include Jackson, Miss.; Montgomery, Ala.; Nashville, Tenn.; New Orleans, La.; and Atlanta, Ga.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it. Tomorrow we'll explain the mistakes and tell you the word. Then you can see how near a hundred you bat.

How The Dixon Telegraph Artist Sees Stars at Conference

England's best known newspaper artist sketched these important figures at the London naval conference for the Dixon Telegraph and NEA Service. He is Stephen Spurrer, famed for his full-page drawings of European political leaders in the London Illustrated News. Here he has depicted Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, "grand old man" of French politics, in an amusing characteristic pose at the conference table. Premier Ramsay MacDonald is seen solemnly reading a prepared address before the assembled delegates, and pictured in attentive poses are Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, Premier Andre Tardieu of France, and J. L. Ralston of the Canadian delegation.

MR. GROUNDHOG FAILS TO LIVE UP TO HIS DUTY

Leaves Next Six Weeks Of Weather Matter Question Marks

New York, Feb. 3.—(UP)—Brer Groundhog lay fast asleep in his concrete den at the Bronx Zoo today, leaving the matter of winter's future state enveloped in a myriad of interrogation marks.

"There are groundhogs and groundhogs," was the sage wisdom which escaped the lips of Head Keeper John Toomey, as he related how his pet groundhog had embarrassed him and the city whose guest he is.

It was at noon yesterday when a troop of Boy Scouts, invited to watch Brer Groundhog in the act of prognosticating the next six weeks of weather, arrived at the Zoo. There were movie camera men—sound and soundless—and a throng of uninvited but interested spectators.

Jeepers Toomey peered into the den and announced that Mr. Groundhog was still in a lethargic state. So, with a knowing air, he deftly pushed some carrots and lettuce within range of the groundhog's nostrils. The animal snoozed on.

Mr. Toomey smiled sheepishly at the Watchful Boy Scouts and then permitted his hands to emerge with a squirming groundhog. The keeper carried the animal to a hole which he himself had dug.

Into the hole the groundhog was placed. But only for an instant for he emerged with a velocity which not only upset Mr. Toomey's equilibrium but left the cameramen with nothing but a blurred streak to indicate his course straight for his concrete home and promptly to sleep went the furry weather prophet.

Deploping the animal's refusal to abide by tradition—that is, either to return to the specially dug hole, indicating six more weeks of winter weather or remain outside, indicating that spring was but a trifle distant—Keeper Toomey once again removed the temperamental groundhog from his concrete abode. Back into the mud hole he was shoved. Cameras clicked and the Boy Scouts watched, mouths agape, but all for naught for once again groundhog emerged like a bullet and headed straight for his dugout.

The furred guest of the municipality returned to his twice-disturbed sleep while the Boy Scouts, somewhat

Rash Romance

© 1930 by NEA Service Inc. by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JUDITH CAMERON, typist in a New York publishing house, married ARTHUR KNIGHT her employer. Knight is a widower with a daughter, TONY, and a son, JUNIOR.

The girl ignores her stepmother. Later she tells Judith she must leave the house. Knight overhears and compels Tony to apologize.

The girl spends much of her time with HICKEY MORTIMER, a young man who she met in Paris. He is separated from his wife and deep in a situation with Tony. As days pass a state of armed neutrality exists between Tony and Judith.

ANDY CRAIG, a young man Knight has helped through college, calls on Tony. He has been in love with her—rather hopelessly—for a long while. Craig comes to the house frequently and Tony, in a mood of spite, tries to convince her father the young man is carrying on an affair with Judith. When Knight denies this angrily Tony tricks Judith and Andy Craig into a luncheon engagement and brings her father upon the scene.

Tony and Mortimer are arrested for reckless driving. Knight brings his daughter home. For days the girl is sulky and rebellious. Affairs reach such a pitch that Judith appeals to Andy Craig. Knight sees the pair together but later Judith denies that she spent the afternoon in town.

Knight tries to overcome his suspicions. Craig calls to see Tony. Her father goes to tell the girl of his arrival and she refuses to see Craig but father and daughter are reconciled. Knight promises Tony a trip to Miami with Judith, unaware that Hickey Mortimer has gone to the Florida resort.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXVIII

FROM the very start Judith opposed making the trip south.

"But I don't want to go, Arthur! she objected. 'I'd much rather stay here.'"

Knight explained patiently. "It's going to do you good," he told her. "And then think of Tony! She needs to get away and you know I can't send her alone. I wish you could have heard the child talk tonight. Judith. Every thing's changed. Why, she admitted she's been foolish, said she was ashamed of the way she's been acting. Wants to make a new start."

"I'm glad," Judith answered. "But I'd so much rather stay here with you!"

Her husband shook his head. "You aren't going to feel that way any longer dear. Why, I believe these four weeks will bring you and Tony together in a way nothing else could! I tell you the girls repentant. She sees her mistakes. Judith, this is the very time for you to use your influence to cure her of her nonsense."

Knight's speech ended abruptly. Perhaps he felt he had protested too much.

Judith was silent. Suddenly she looked up. "Well, if the trip must be made why can't you come, too? Please do, Arthur!"

He said that was completely out of the question. "I can't leave town," he assured her. "There's this trouble getting the western branch reorganized. Henderson's in South America. Hunter expects me to have the fall schedules ready next month. You know I couldn't get away just now. Judith. If it could be managed I'd be glad to go."

"Then it's all settled," Judith said quietly after a pause. "You want me to go?"

"I wish you wouldn't put it just that way!" Judith Knight smiled up at her husband from beneath lowered lashes. "He smile held reservations but it was affectionate."

"I'll do it if you want me to, she agreed. "I'd—oh, I'd stay away three times as long if I knew it would persuade Tony to be friendly."

"And that's just what you're going to find will happen. What will you bet that at the end of one month sunning yourself on the sand and sitting under palm trees while New York's 10 degrees below zero you won't be telling me you've postponed your return another two weeks?" "What'll you bet—huh?"

"I'll bet a quarter that I won't!" "Put up your money."

THE conversation ended jokingly. It was just another of those things, Judith Knight told herself, which must be seen through to the end. There was no way, apparently, to avoid this unwelcome pilgrimage with Arthur's daughter.

She could not deny to herself the following morning that Tony's behavior was exemplary. Still Judith was wary. There had been other times when the girl's manner seemed dove-like and havoc followed close in the wake.

At 10 o'clock Tony had breakfasted and was downstairs, dressed for the day. She looked pale and considerably subdued.

"Father, says we're going to Florida," she said to Judith. "Yes, Palm Beach. Do you like it there?"

"Oh, I guess so. Anything's better than New York. I like swimming."

"Good," said Judith. "So do I." "I haven't a rag that's wearable. Can't go until I get together some clothes."

This was a phase of the expedition which had escaped Judith completely. She had the wardrobe collected so hastily for the trip to Bermuda. Few of those things, she was to learn, would do for Palm Beach.

Tony's purchases enlightened Judith. Sweetly, the younger girl asked her stepmother to accompany her upon shopping trips. The date of departure had been finally set as March 5. This gave six days to rush through preliminaries.

With admirable generosity Tony Knight began buying things. She had the way to shops of which Judith had never heard. They were small, out-of-the-way places in the realm of upper Madison avenue.

French or English with such a French accent that Judith could scarcely understand it—was the language spoken in such salons. Tony Knight was draped and fitted in soft white woolen and cotton slits, swaggy beach clothes and filmy, trailing frocks for evening which made her really beautiful.

Judith bought several costumes. It was impossible to travel as Tony's companion and not look the part. The price of these trifles appalled her. Furthermore, it all seemed so silly. Why should she spend time and money trying to look like a fashionplate merely to impress men and women unknown to her and in whom she had not the slightest interest?

In this Judith Knight's viewpoint was thoroughly feminine. Had Arthur been making the trip, if he were to be there to see her, lovely gowns would suddenly become paramount.

The day that Tony quite casually ordered three dozen pair of silk hose Judith felt she must remonstrate. She said nothing to the girl but confided in Knight.

"Don't you think, Arthur," she said cautiously, "that you really should say something to Tony about her extravagance? Just tactfully I mean?"

Knight shook his head, smiling indulgently. "You let me worry about the financial part of this trip," he told Judith. "Just having Tony so quiet and well-behaved as she's been the past few days is almost worth the price of the thing. The kid's had her lesson. Now I want to show her it pays to behave. What's the price of a few dresses and silk stockings and one thing and another compared with peace in the family?"

There was certainly no answer for Judith to make to that statement.

QUETLY the days slipped by. Four days before their departure Judith went in town alone on an errand. Tony had pleaded a headache and remained behind.

It was nearly four o'clock in the afternoon. There was no sun and a chill March wind was blowing. Judith held her fur wrap closely about her as she hurried up the avenue.

A window display of fine linens caught her eye. She paused walked nearer to the shop window and inspected the tableware.

"Why—if it isn't Judith!" The girl turned. For an instant she was incredulous. Then swiftly she recognized the woman who, had spoken. She was barely three feet away, smiling and waiting.

"Mrs. West—I didn't recognize you! Why, how do you do, Mrs. West?"

"And I almost passed you. What a coincidence! My dear Judith, how well you're looking. What have you been doing all this time? So often we've thought of you."

"Oh, I've been rather busy. Doing some of the rooms of our home over. Just now I've been shopping. We're going to Florida—"

"How very nice. My dear, do let's go somewhere and have tea. I'm pining for it. And I must hear the news about you and Arthur!"

That "Arthur" very nearly decided the issue. Judith had never presumed to call Mrs. Franklin West's husband by his given name. She had never, when it was avoidable, called him anything. Hearing Mrs. West refer so intimately to Arthur Knight aroused resentment.

Still, Mrs. West looked the picture of eager friendliness, and Judith did not have many friends.

"Why, yes," she agreed. "Let's have tea."

They found a place on the second floor above a popular eating place. It was a room paneled in dark wood and hung with blue draperies. Neat waitresses in black and white girdled silently between the tables.

Here and there about the large room groups of fashionably dressed women lingered over tea and wists of curling cigarette smoke floated ceilingward.

Judith and Mrs. West took a table at the side of the room. The older woman had been chatting volubly during the lift in the elevator. She looked very attractive, Judith admitted to herself. The small black hat Mrs. West wore with its coquettish nose veil was a trifle theoretical—still it was becoming. The green velvet wrap suited Mrs. West's high coloring, and displayed the lines of her excellent figure.

"—and we missed you so much after you left Bermuda," Mrs. West was saying. "My husband spoke of you and Arthur repeatedly. Yes, we were at Hamilton until after Christmas and ever since then I've been meaning to look you up. Now that Fate has taken a hand we really must see more of you!"

JUDITH stirred uncomfortably. "Yes, indeed," she murmured. "Just as soon as we return—"

"Oh, you're NOT going to put us off that long! Please don't say that. Judith! Can't you and Arthur take dinner with us tomorrow evening?"

"I'm sorry," the girl answered. "We have an engagement."

"Then how about the next night?"

THE CALL OF THE OUTDOORS

FEED THE GAME BIRDS
Mid-winter usually finds a large area of the United States covered with snow and the game birds find it extremely difficult to locate food. Millions of upland game birds, such as pheasants, quail, ruffed grouse, prairie chickens, pinnated grouse and Hungarian partridge, suffer remorsefully from lack of food and the force of the unmerciful blizzards that rage on their way down from the north.
Quail have been known to become trapped under the frozen crust of snow and starve before the warm sun melts the snow surface sufficiently for them to break through.
Feeding campaigns sponsored by various chapters of the Izaak Walton League of America do wonders to save the game birds during the long winter period. Every community where game birds exist should organize feeding campaigns and help to save the feathered folks of the fields and woodlands from starvation. A severe winter works havoc on every covey and unless they are fed and protected their number certainly decreases alarmingly.

Dixon Boxers Make Excellent Showing

Dixon's boxers, Vernon Donoho and Joe Sharkey under the tutelage of "Buck" Foley of Rochelle, made a very favorable impression upon the fans who witnessed the preliminaries at Streator last Thursday and Friday evenings in which Donoho won and made possible his entry in the finals at Chicago later in the month. Donoho won from John Mennucci of Streator in his first bout Thursday night.
Joe Sharkey, whose style of fighting has developed under Foley's training, fought the best as well as the hardest battle of his career when he was matched with Chee-Chee Salome, one of the toughest contenders in the Streator division. Both the Donoho and Sharkey bouts went four rounds, under the A. A. U. ruling, to decide a winner. Streator papers credited both Dixon pugilists with furnishing the best entertainment of the evening in the bill of eight scraps. A large following of Dixon fans are planning to attend the finals in Chicago the latter part of this month to witness Donoho's performance against the best boxers in the country, who are entered in the Golden Glove contest, to be decided at the Chicago Stadium, commencing February 25.

TRADE TALK IS HEARD AROUND NATIONAL LOOP

Rumors Of Several Impending Deals In Senior League

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Feb. 3.—(UP)—With National League magnates gathered here for the annual schedule meeting at the Hotel Commodore tomorrow, the talk of trades was revived in many quarters today.
The business coming before the league tomorrow is largely routine, as the schedule for the 1930 season already has been prepared by the two leagues presidents. The major league season will open April 15 and close September 28.
Efforts to smooth out the differences between the warring factions in the Brooklyn controversy are expected to be made tomorrow at a meeting of the Brooklyn board of directors.
At present the Brooklyn club is without a manager, as Uncle Wilbert Robinson's contract has expired and no manager has been elected for 1930. It is probable that Robinson will be deposed as President of the Brooklyn Club, but re-elected as manager.
To Trade Hoyt
Manager Bob Shawkey of the New York Yankees and Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the club, have definitely decided to dispose of Waite Hoyt, and a deal involving him may be put through this week.
A proposed trade with Detroit fell through, but negotiations are understood to be under way between the Yankees and the Boston Red Sox, with Ed Morris of the latter club as the player wanted by the Yankees.
Despite denials by Pittsburgh officials, stories continue to make their appearance that Burleigh Grimes will not be with the Pirates next season.
Reds Want Grimes
Cincinnati is anxious to make a trade, and President Sidney Weil of the Reds has two outfielders and a veteran pitcher, probably Adolfo Luque, on the market.
Joe Dugan, veteran third baseman who has been given his unconditional release by the Boston Braves, may land with Brooklyn.
Bill Hunnefeld, Chicago White Sox infielder, is not likely to be with that club next season. He attended the baseball writers' dinner and said that he expected to play elsewhere. Waivers have been asked on him, it was learned.
Fresco Thompson, star second baseman, is not for sale or trade, President William F. Baker of the Phillies said in answer to a question if the New York Giants were dickering for Thompson.

With the Cagers

Chicago, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Five games this week, two of them involving the pace-setting Purdue five, will help to lift the Western Conference basketball campaign from the doldrums.
Tonight the leaders will entertain Ohio State at LaFayette. The Buckeyes have been victorious only once in four starts. Chicago, which has taken it on the chin in each of its four Big Ten contests, will be host to Purdue Saturday night.
Illinois also has a chance to boost its stock, having contests with Chicago and Minnesota this week. The Illini will meet Chicago at Champaign, Wednesday night, and will journey to Minneapolis Saturday. Indiana will go back into action Saturday night, meeting Ohio State at Columbus.
Michigan made the most of its opportunities last week and climbed into a tie with Illinois for third position. Minnesota squeezed out its first victory of the championship season Saturday night, finishing fast to nip Ohio State, 29 to 26.
Illinois may find the going tough, following the loss of Horace May, regular center, by scholastic ineligibility. May, along with Steinmann, a varsity reserve forward, may regain eligibility by passing makeup examinations next week.
Since playing its last league game three weeks ago, Purdue has gained

"My experience has been that you can't poison an English sparrow without poisoning two or three innocent robins," declared Tell Brinkley, today, in denouncing the proposal to dope industrial alcohol. CHICAGO, COOK CO. HAVE PLENTY OF COMPANY NOW

Suburbs Of Metropolis Seek Money To Pay Current Debts
Chicago, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Chicago and Cook county had lots of company on the financial rocks today.
Several suburban governments had joined them, all in the quandary of payrolls to meet without monies with which to do it.
The South Park Board, controlling the system of south side parks, announced a 15 percent reduction of wages. Its 1,300 employees, including 320 policemen, agreed to the "temporary" cut rather than to accept the alternative of a reduction in the number of employees. This is the first time the South Park Board, which is state controlled, has indicated the financial shoe was pinching.
City employees, payless for a month may have some important news tomorrow when the council is to decide whether to ask the Citizens Relief Committee for $5,000,000 to meet police, fire and health department payrolls. Alderman John S. Clark, chairman of the City Council's Finance Committee, will ask aldermanic sanction for a meeting between representatives of the city and of the relief committee, relative to completion of the loan.
Mayor Not Enthusiast
The relief committee has insisted that before it will get money for the city the administration must give assurance that the money will go only for the payment of pressing bills, and that rigid economy be exercised—henceforth. Mayor William Hale Thompson and his supporters have shown no enthusiasm toward the relief committee offer.
Tax officials have pledged their earnest efforts to complete the reassessment, extend the taxes and have the bills in the mails by June 1.
In the suburb of Mt. Prospect parents have contributed cash to keep schools in operation; citizens of Arlington Heights are considering similar action; in Blue Island the night schools have been closed to keep the day schools going; Ploosmoor is borrowing from its water and sewer funds to meet other expenses; in Homewood the teachers are paid up to next Wednesday, but after that

Gasoline Tax Was $2,200,000 Monthly

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—(UP)—Revenue obtained by the state through the 1929 three cent gasoline tax law has averaged approximately $2,200,000 a month, according to figures compiled by the State Department of Finance. The total collected for the five months the tax was in effect last year amounted to $11,000,000 of which two-thirds goes to the state and the balance to counties in proportion to the amount of money paid in automobile fees.
During the months of August, September, October and November an average of $2,500,000 was established, but during the last month of the year the receipts showed a marked decrease. This was due to extreme cold weather and heavy snow falls which cut down motor travel.
Under the law of 1929, county boards may outline their road building program and the work is to be done under state supervision.

Three Prisoners In Urbana Jail Break

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 3.—(AP)—February has proved a better month for jailbreakers in Champaign county. Three attempts to break out of the county jail in January failed. Today three prisoners, using an eighteen-inch iron bar as a weapon, slugged two jailers and walked out.
William Harris, night jailer, reached into a cell at 5:30 A. M. to remove a wastebasket. A blow on the head felled him and three men emerged: Glen Nichols, indicted for the robbery of the Inman Hotel in November, when $500 was taken; Harold Smith of Charleston, who was captured after the holdup of guests at the Henry H. Harris home the night of the Army-Illinois football game, and Archie Leppard of Champaign, held on a bastardy charge.
Henry Shanks, another jailer, slugged him with the bar and escaped to the street. They forced a garage attendant to give them an automobile and drove away. No trace has been found.

206 New Million Incomes Reported

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The year 1929 saw 206 additions to the select group of those whose individual incomes exceed one million dollars.
In all, there were 496 in this exclusive class and of these, 24 had incomes running past the five million dollar mark. Altogether, the 496 had a total income of $1,073,706, of which, the government collected, $178,525,926 in income taxes.
These figures were compiled by the Treasury in reporting in incomes tax collections of last year and were issued for publication today.
A decrease of 50,588 in the number of returns as compared with the preceding year was noted, but the total of income taxes collected showed an increase of $316,014,283.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)
